Acknowledgements

I would like to thank a number of important people who helped in the completion of this story. Above all I would like to thank my wife Judith Renner, our daughter Sophie and our dog Anton for all their love, support and encouragement. Furthermore I would like to thank my parents Monika and Mike Spencer, as well as my close friend Stefan Beeck.

This book is the result of my Habilitation at the Ludwig-Maximilians-University Munich and has greatly benefited from tremendous feedback from a number of critical as well as inspiring people in and around the political science department including: Bernhard Zangl, Berthold Rittberger, Anna Geis, Mathias Albert, Rainer Hülse, Andreas Kruck, Tine Hanrieder, Christian Kreuder-Sonnen, Benjamin Braun, Renate Strassner, Anna Stetter, Helena Schwarzenbeck, Moritz Weiss, Dovilė Rimkutė, Nina Guérin and Stefan Jagdhuber.

Some material from Chapter 2 has been published as ‘Romantic Stories of the Pirate in IARRRH: The Failure of Linking Piracy and Terrorism Narratives in Germany’, International Studies Perspectives, 15(3) (2014), 297–312, and is reprinted with the permission of John Wiley and Sons. Parts of Chapter 4 have been published as ‘Contested Stories of Commercial Security: Self- and Media Narratives of Private Military and Security Companies’, Critical Studies on Security, 1(3) (2013), 326–346, with Andreas Kruck, and is reprinted with the permission of Taylor & Francis. I would also like to thank Manchester University Press for their support, assistance and patience in seeing this project through to its completion. All mistakes, omission and opinions expressed in this book are my own.