ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Special thanks are due to the contributors to this volume for their tireless commitment and patience during its long preparation. The editors are also grateful to the following people and organizations: the Estate of W. G. Sebald for permission to quote from and reproduce Sebald's works throughout the volume; Julie de Chazal at the Wylie Agency for her invaluable advice in securing permissions; English Heritage for permission to reproduce 'Bomb damage at Holland House'; and Kim Walker and Matthew Frost at Manchester University Press for their help with editorial queries. Jeannette Baxter would like to thank her parents and K and W for their continued love and support, and she would like to remember her brother, Tony, who died before this project was fully completed. Ben Hutchinson gratefully acknowledges Richard Sheppard for his continuing advice on all matters Sebaldian, as well as Shane Weller for the many fruitful hours of discussion. Throughout this project, Valerie Henitiuk has been particularly inspired by both of her co-editors, as well as by the old letter-tray sitting in her office, with its faded label that reads 'Prof. Sebald'.

Some of the ideas in this volume started life at the 'W. G. Sebald: An International and Interdisciplinary Conference' held at the University of East Anglia in 2008. The editors would like to thank the organizers and all participants of that conference for the thoughtful reflection and on-going discussion it has engendered.