LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Liora Bigon is an urban historian, a Research Fellow in European Studies at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel. She has contributed to numerous books and journals (Journal of Historical Geography, Planning Perspectives, Urban History) on the subject of indigenous and British and French colonial planning cultures in Africa. Her PhD in architecture – gained from the University of Manchester, and published as A History of Urban Planning in Two West African Colonial Capitals: Residential Segregation in British Lagos and French Dakar (1850–1930) (Lewiston, NY: Edwin Mellen Press, 2009) – compares metropolitan, colonial and indigenous planning aspects with regard to British Lagos and French Dakar.

Charlotte Jelidi is an architectural and urban historian. She is currently based at the Institut de recherche sur le Maghreb contemporain, Tunis, where she coordinates a research programme on ‘evolution of the Maghrebian cities under colonial situation’. Since she gained her PhD in history from the University of Tours, on the creation of the ville nouvelle of Fes under the French Protectorate in Morocco, her teaching and publications have dealt with colonial urbanism and the history of modern architecture, and with conservation politics in Tunisia and Morocco.

Ruth Kark is a professor at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. She has written and edited over twenty books and 200 articles on the history and historical geography of Palestine and Israel. Her research interests include the study of urban and rural settlement processes, the urban and architectural history of the Middle Eastern city, land use and land ownership in the Middle East and Palestine/Israel in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, and the interaction of Western nations/civilisations with the Holy Land, including the impact of missionary societies on architecture there.

Yossi Katz is a full professor in geography at Bar-Ilan University, Israel. He holds the Chair for the Study of the History and Activities of the Jewish National Fund at his institution. He specialises in the modern history of the Land of Israel and the State of Israel, Zionism, the process of Jewish settlement in the Land of Israel and in Western Canada. He has published twenty-two books including Partner to Partition: The Jewish Agency's Partition Plan in the Mandate Era (1998), Between Jerusalem and Hebron: Jewish Settlement in the Pre-State Period (1999), The Last Best West: Essays on the Historical Geography of the Canadian Prairies (with J. L. Lehr, 1999), The Religious Kibbutz Movement in the Land of Israel (1999, 2003) and Inside the Ark: The Hutterites in Canada and the United States (with J. L. Lehr, 2012).

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Makame Ali Muhajir is a Minerva Fellow at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York. He gained his PhD in 2011 from the University of Kansas, and his research interests include dialogic planning approaches for Africa with specific emphasis on how planning works in the age of reform. Over most of the 1990s, he directed the Department of Surveys and Urban Planning in Zanzibar formed within the defunct Commission for Lands and Environment. He also managed the Sida-funded community-based rehabilitation programme in Stone Town in Zanzibar in 2001–05.

Garth Andrew Myers is Paul E. Raether Distinguished Professor of Urban International Studies at Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut. He is director of the Urban Studies Program, as well as a member of the Department of International Studies and of the Centre for Urban and Global Studies at Trinity. He is the author of several books, including African Cities: Alternative Visions of Urban Theory and Practice (2011), Disposable Cities: Garbage, Governance and Sustainable Development in Urban Africa (2005), and Verandahs of Power: Colonialism and Space in Urban Africa (2003). Myers was previously Professor of Geography and African Studies and Director of the African Studies Centre at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas.

Alain Sinou is a full professor at the Université Paris 8. He began his career as a researcher at the IRD (Institut de recherche pour le développement) and studied West African urbanisation. He is a member of the 'Centre de recherches historiques' – a newly initiated research laboratory in his university, and in recent years he has been working on urban heritage processes, especially in West African societies. His publications include Les Villes d'Afrique noire entre 1650 et 1960 (co-authored, 1989), Porto-Novo ville d'Afrique noire (1989), Comptoirs et villes coloniales du Sénégal, Saint-Louis, Gorée, Dakar (1993) and Ouidah, une ville africaine singulière (1995).

Ines Sonder is an art historian and researcher of architecture in the Land of Israel at the Moses Mendelssohn Centre for European-Jewish Studies in Potsdam, Germany. She wrote her PhD on 'Garden Cities for Eretz Israel: Zionist Urban Visions from Theodor Herzl to Richard Kauffmann' (published by Georg Olms Verlag, New York, 2005, in German). She compiled a catalogue of buildings and projects planned by the female German-Israeli architect Lotte Cohn (Bauhaus Center, Tel Aviv, 2009) and published the first biography on her. She currently teaches the history of Jewish settlement, architecture and art in the Land of Israel at Potsdam University.

Miki Zaidman is a practising architect involved in urban planning as well as designing individual buildings. His academic interest lies in the area of the history of urban planning, with emphasis on the processes and concepts that shaped the current Israeli urban environment. Besides his degree in architecture and town planning from the Technion (Haifa), he has an MA and a PhD in historical geography from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. His research attempts to delineate the Eretz-Israeli adaptation of the garden city and to define the 'Zionist urban pattern' from past to present.

[x]