Acknowledgements

The editors would like to thank all of the contributors for agreeing to write for this book, Tony Mason at Manchester University Press for his interest in the project, and Jenny Howard and Stephanie Matthews of Manchester University Press for their professionalism in shepherding the book into print.

For the time and support necessary to work on this volume, James Pfiffner would like to thank the School of Advanced Study at the University of London where he was a Professorial Fellow in the Institute for the Study of the Americas from January through June 2007. Nicholas Mann, Dean of SAS and James Dunkerley, Dean of ISA were generous in making the Fellowship possible. He would also like to thank the School of Public Policy at George Mason University, particularly Dean Kingsley Haynes, for the study leave that made the visit possible. Several colleagues provided help and advice for this project for which he is grateful: Lara Brown, Tom Coghlan, Phil Davies, John Dumbrell, George C. Edwards, James Finkelstein, John Gordon, Don Kash, Timothy Lynch, Jeremy Mayer, Iwan Morgan, John Owens, and Jon Roper.

Mark Phythian would like to thank Peter Gill, his former colleagues in the History and Governance Research Institute at the University of Wolverhampton, Diane Evans—particularly for invaluable help with the appendices—and James and Hayley.

The editors would also like to thank the publishers and authors for permission to reprint the following:
