ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to thank the Economic & Social Research Council (grant reference: RES-062-23-2796) for funding this research. Elspeth Probyn was a co-investigator on the project, conducting interviews in Malaysia and contributing to a number of articles and presentations emerging from it. Olive Cheung was central to the project's success, remaining with it for the duration, organising and conducting many parts of the fieldwork and contributing subtle and informed understandings of the Chinese patient experiences in Korea, while Ji Hyun Cho accessed and interviewed Korean patients and surgeons. Emily Hunter conducted interviews and ethnography in Australia, Thailand and Malaysia, and assisted in writing up early publications, as did Kate Hardy in the UK, Spain, Tunisia and Poland. Additional interviews were undertaken in Poland by Marcela Kościańczuk and in Spain by Almudena Casas and Jackie Sanchez Taylor. Rowan Savage and Hannah Lewis assisted with data coding. Matthew Wilkinson was our excellent project administrator and events coordinator.

We would also like to thank Laurence Vick, Legal Director at Enable Law, Graeme Perks, chair of the Professional Standards Committee and former president of the British Association of Plastic, Reconstructive and Aesthetic Surgeons (BAPRAS), Christopher Stone, former Clinical Director of Specialist Surgery at the Royal Devon and Exeter NHS Foundation Trust and director of Medical and Legal Ltd, Keith Pollard, director of Intuition Communication Ltd, Ki Nam Jin, Professor of Health Administration at Yonsei University and Nada Al-Hadithy, plastic surgeon at the Royal Devon and Exeter NHS Foundation Trust, all of whom at different points acted as advisors to the project. We are grateful to Dr Ilaria Vanni Accarigi for helping us find a crucial piece of misplaced fieldwork.

We are grateful to Anne Kerr and an anonymous reader for comments on a draft of the book, and to reviewers and organisers, editors and interlocutors for previous publications and presentations too numerous to list here. We thank Thomas Dark at Manchester University Press for commissioning this book and for his patience and encouragement, David Appleyard for seeing the book through production, Joe Haining at Blenheim Editorial for his fantastic copy editing and Martin Hargreaves for compiling the index. Our biggest thanks go to our participants – the patient-consumers, drivers, translators, nurses, hoteliers, agents, international medical travel facilitators and surgeons who gave up their time and stories to make this research possible.

The material presented in this book builds on and extends previous publications from the project, especially the following:

Ruth Holliday, David Bell, Olive Cheung, Meredith Jones and Elspeth Probyn (2015), Brief encounters: assembling cosmetic surgery tourism, Social Science & Medicine, 124, 298–304.

Ruth Holliday, Olive Cheung, Ji Hyun Cho and David Bell (2017), Trading faces: the ‘Korean Look’ and medical nationalism in South Korean cosmetic surgery tourism, Asia Pacific Viewpoint, 58 (2), 190–202.

Meredith Jones, David Bell, Ruth Holliday, Elspeth Probyn and Jacqueline Sanchez Taylor (2014), Facebook and facelifts: communities of cosmetic surgery tourists, in Garth Lean, Russell Staiff and Emma Waterton (eds), Travel and Transformation, Aldershot: Ashgate, 189–204.

Further information about the research project can be found at www.ssss.leeds.ac.uk.