LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Adekeye Adebajo is a Professor and the Director of the Institute for Pan-African Thought and Conversation (IPATC) and the Institute of Global African Affairs (IGAA), both at the University of Johannesburg (UJ) in South Africa. He was Executive Director of the Centre for Conflict Resolution (CCR) in Cape Town between 2003 and 2016. He served on United Nations (UN) missions in South Africa, Western Sahara, and Iraq, and was Director of the Africa Programme at the International Peace Institute (IPI) in New York. Professor Adebajo is the author of six books including Building Peace in West Africa; The Curse of Berlin: Africa after the Cold War; UN Peacekeeping in Africa; Thabo Mbeki: Africa's Philosopher-King; and The Eagle and the Springbok: Essays on Nigeria and South Africa. He is co-editor or editor of 10 books on Africa's international relations. Professor Adebajo holds a doctorate from Oxford University in England, and is a columnist for Business Day (South Africa), the Guardian (Nigeria), and the Gleaner (Jamaica).

Jerome Afeikhena is the Special Advisor to the Commissioner for Rural Economy and Agriculture, African Union (AU) Commission in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. He is also a Visiting Professor of Economics at Igbinedion University in Nigeria. He has held several distinguished positions including Visiting Scholar at the International Monetary Fund (IMF); Visiting Fellow at the World Bank; and Senior Associate member at St Antony's College at Oxford University. He co-edited African Development in the 21st Century: Adebayo Adedeji's Theories and Contributions.

Kweku Ampiah is a political economist and an Associate Professor of Japanese Studies at the University of Leeds in England. His research and teaching interests include Japanese foreign policy and Japanese politics. He is the author of The Political and Moral Imperatives of the Bandung Conference of 1955, and co-author of Rethinking Japan: The Politics of Contested Nationalism. He obtained his doctorate from Oxford University.

Ada Uzoamaka Azodo is a Visiting Assistant Professor of French and Women's Studies, and an Adjunct Professor of Minority Studies at Indiana University Northwest in the US. She is author of L'Imaginaire dans les romans de Camara Laye; guest editor of African Feminisms: Ideology, Gender and Development, and OFO: Journal of Transatlantic Studies. She was co-editor of Gender and Sexuality in African Literature and Film, and has published six other volumes in the African World Press "Emerging Perspectives" series. Dr Azodo earned her doctorate from the University of Lagos (UNILAG) in Nigeria.

Hilary Beckles is a Professor and Vice-Chancellor of the University of the West Indies (UWI). He is Vice-President of the International Task Force for the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) Slave Route Project; a Consultant for the UNESCO Cities for Peace Global Programme; an adviser for the UN World Culture Report; and an advisor to the UN Secretary-General on Sustainable Development. Professor Beckles previously acted as Chair of the UWI Press, as well as serving on the Caribbean Community's (CARICOM) Commission on Reparation and Social Justice. He has lectured extensively in Europe, Africa, Asia and the Americas, and published over ten scholarly books.

Ama Biney is an independent scholar with over twenty years of teaching experience in Britain and Ghana. Her publications include The Political and Social Thought of Kwame Nkrumah; and Speaking Truth to Power: Selected Pan-African Postcards of Tajudeen Abdul-Raheem, as well as several academic articles. She is a former editor-in-chief of the Pan-African weekly electronic newsletter, Pambazuka News. Dr Biney holds an undergraduate degree from the University of Birmingham, in England. She obtained her master's and doctorate from the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS) at the University of London.

Alease A. Brown was a Post-Doctoral Fellow at the University of the Western Cape's Desmond Tutu Centre for Religion and Social Justice in South Africa. She previously practised as an attorney in New York. Dr Brown published in international journals. Her research interests lay in the intersection of religion and progressive social movements in the South African context, as seen through the lenses of Black and feminist theology. She obtained a doctorate in theology from Stellenbosch University in the Western Cape, South Africa.

Selwyn R. Cudjoe is a Professor of Africana Studies at Wellesley College in Massachusetts, US. He previously taught at Harvard, Cornell, Ohio, and Fordham universities. He is the author of Caribbean Visionary: A.R.F. Webber and the Making of the Guyanese Nation; V.S. Naipaul: A Materialist Reading; Beyond Boundaries: The Intellectual Tradition of Trinidad and Tobago; Resistance and Caribbean Literature; and, most recently, The Slave Master of Trinidad: William Hardin Burnley and the Nineteenth Century Atlantic World. He also co-edited C.L.R. James: His Intellectual Legacies. Professor Cudjoe has written for the New York Times, New Left Review, and Harvard Educational Review. He is a weekly columnist for the Trinidad Express.

Lee A. Daniels is a journalist who previously worked for the Washington Post and New York Times, among other US media organisations. He is a former editor of the National Urban League (NUL) publication, The State of Black America, and a former Director of Communications at the National Association for the Advancement of Coloured People's (NAACP) Legal Defence and Educational Fund. Mr Daniels is the author of Last Chance: The Political Threat to Black America.

Seamus Duggan is a Senior Analyst at the Johannesburg office of Control Risks in South Africa, where he provides political, operational, and security risk analysis on southern Africa. His research interests lie in how Pan-Africanism has shaped responses to conflict resolution and continental integration, with a particular emphasis on the roles of, and relationship between, South Africa and Nigeria. He holds a doctorate in international relations from Oxford University.

Louisa Uchum Egbunike is an Associate Professor in African Literature at Durham University in England. She earlier lectured in Contemporary African Literature at City University of London and SOAS, where she completed her doctorate. Dr Egbunike has published in a number of academic books and journals including African Literature Today and Matatu. She was a curator of the art exhibition Legacies of Biafra, and co-writer and producer of the documentary film In the Shadow of Biafra. Dr Egbunike is one of the founders and conveners of the annual International Igbo Conference.

Janice Golding is a programme specialist on climate and environment at the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in Tshwane (Pretoria), South Africa. She served the State Secretariat for Economic Affairs of the government of Switzerland in South Africa, and previously worked as a South African public servant overseeing capacity-building development projects across southern Africa. Dr Golding edited Southern African Plant Red Data Lists, and wrote a chapter on Wangari Maathai for the book Africa's Peacemakers: Nobel Peace Laureates of African Descent. She obtained her doctorate from Oxford University.

Colin Grant is a historian and an associate fellow of the Centre for Caribbean Studies at the University of Warwick, in England. He writes for The Guardian, Times Literary Supplement (TLS) and the New York Review of Books. His publications include Negro with a Hat: The Rise and Fall of Marcus Garvey and His Dream of Mother Africa; and Homecoming: Voices of the Windrush Generation.

Clinton A. Hutton is the Director of the Institute of Technological and Educational Research (ITER) at Mico University College in Kingston, Jamaica. He previously lectured at the University of the West Indies for 25 years. His publications include The Logic and Historical Significance of the Haitian Revolution and the Cosmological Roots of Haitian Freedom; and Colour for Colour, Skin for Skin: Marching with the Ancestral Spirits into War Oh at Morant Bay. Professor Hutton was the lead editor of and contributor to both Leonard Percival Howell and the Genesis of Rastafari, and Rupert Lewis and the Black Intellectual Tradition.

Abiola Irele died in July 2017, while an Associate at the Hutchins Centre for African and African American Research at Harvard University in Massachusetts, US. Professor Irele served as the Provost of the College of Humanities at Kwara State University in Nigeria. He taught at the universities of Ibadan, Dar es Salaam, Ghana, Ohio State, Tulane, and Harvard. He was the author or editor of: Selected Poems of Léopold Sédar Senghor; the Cambridge History of African and Caribbean Literature; The Négritude Moment; and The African Scholar and Other Essays. He obtained his doctorate from the University of Paris, and was an editor of Transition and the Savannah Review.

Maureen Isaacson is an independent writer, researcher, and editor. She was the literary editor of the Sunday Independent (South Africa), and worked most recently for the Foundation for Human Rights (FHR) in Johannesburg as programme manager for participatory democracy. She is currently based in Stockholm, Sweden. She has published a short story collection, Holding Back Midnight, and her short stories have been published in a variety of anthologies and journals. She has researched and edited two books: The Fifties People of South Africa, and The Finest Photographs from the Old Drum.

Adele L. Jinadu is an Adjunct Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of Lagos in Nigeria. He has served as President of the African Association of Political Science (AAPS) and as Vice-President of the International Political Science Association (IPSA). His publications include Fanon: In Search of the African Revolution; Structure and Choice in African Politics; Social Science and Development in Africa: Ethiopia, Mozambique, Tanzania and Zimbabwe; Ethnic Conflict and Federalism in Nigeria; Intellectuals, Democracy and Development in Africa; and Explaining and Managing Ethnic Conflict in Africa.

Gilbert M. Khadiagala is the Jan Smuts Professor of International Relations and Director of the African Centre for the Study of the United States (ACSUS) at the University of the Witwatersrand in Johannesburg, South Africa. He has published widely on African politics, foreign policy, security, mediation, conflict resolution, and governance. He is the editor of War and Peace in Africa's Great Lakes Region, and author of Regional Cooperation on Democratization and Conflict Management in Africa, and How Can Democratic Peace Work in Southern Africa? Trends and Trajectories after the Decade of Hope.

W. Andy Knight is Professor of International Relations in the Political Science Department at the University of Alberta in Canada, and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada (FRSC). He has written and edited several books on global politics, the United Nations, building sustainable peace, and regional integration movements. His most recent books include Female Suicide Bombings: A Critical Gendered Approach, and Remapping the Americas: Trends in Region-Making.

Dr Malesela John Lamola is a Senior Research Associate at the Institute of Intelligent Systems (IIS) at the University of Johannesburg, and a Senior Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Pretoria, both in South Africa. He researches and teaches on African social philosophy and African philosophy of technology. Dr Lamola has published widely in international scholarly journals and anthologies on Marxian postcolonial theory, applications of Sartrean existential anti-colonial philosophy, and the representation of Africans in the technologies of the Fourth Industrial Revolution. He holds an MBA degree from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Florida, in the US, and a doctorate from the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

Vladimir Lucien is a writer, actor, and critic. His writing has been widely published, including in an anthology of Caribbean poetry and prose entitled Beyond Sangre Grande. His debut collection, Sounding Ground, won him the OCM Bocas Prize for Caribbean Literature in 2015. He is also the co-editor of the anthology Sent Lisi: Poems and Art of St. Lucia. He was the screenwriter of the documentary The Merikins, which premiered at the Trinidad and Tobago Film Festival in 2013.

Zine Magubane is a Professor of Sociology at Boston College in Massachusetts in the US. She teaches courses in postcolonial studies, race, ethnicity, and popular culture. She earned her doctorate in sociology from Harvard University in the US. She is the author of Bringing the Empire Home: Race, Class and Gender in Britain and Colonial South Africa; and co-editor (with Reitu Mabokela) of Race, Gender and the Status of Black South African Women in the Academy; as well as editor of Postmodernity, Postcoloniality, and African Studies.

Annita Montoute is a Lecturer in the Institute of International Relations (IIR) at the University of the West Indies in Trinidad and Tobago. She was a Research Fellow at the European Centre for Development Policy Management (ECDPM) in Maastricht, in the Netherlands. She is a co-editor of the volume The ACP Group and the EU Development Partnership: Beyond the North-South Debate, and co-author of Changing Cuba—U.S. Relations: Implications for CARICOM States. She obtained her doctorate in international relations from the University of the West Indies.

Aldon D. Morris is the Leon Forrest Professor of Sociology and African-American Studies at Northwestern University in Illinois in the US. He is a former Chair of the Department of Sociology, and Director of Asian-American Studies and Interim Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Northwestern University. Professor Morris was elected President of the American Sociological Association (ASA) in 2019. He was a consultant for the award-winning film Eyes on the Prize, as well as the author of the award-winning book The Origins of the Civil Rights Movement. His book The Scholar Denied: W.E.B. Du Bois and the Birth of Modern Sociology has received a dozen awards.

Nomsa Mwamuka is a media and communications specialist, focusing on African art, culture, education, and socio-economic development issues. She has curated, facilitated, and contributed to various events and festivals including the United Nations Development Programme's "Unite to End Violence Against Women" Film Festival; African Synergy artist exchanges; and the Southern African International Film Festival. She is the co-author of Makeba: The Miriam Makeba Story; a co-compiler of the anthology Township Girls: The Cross-Over Generation; and worked on a multi-media project titled Acts of Activism: Profiles of African Women Cultural and Political Activists.

Sabelo J. Ndlovu-Gatsheni is a Professor and the Director of Scholarship in the Department of Leadership and Transformation in the Principal and Vice-Chancellor's Office at the University of South Africa (Unisa). He was founding head of the Archie Mafeje Research Institute for Applied Social Policy (AMRI) at Unisa. He has published over 100 peer-reviewed journal articles and book chapters, as well as eight single-authored and nine edited books. His major publications include Epistemic Freedom in Africa: Deprovincialization and Decolonization, and Decolonization, Development and Knowledge in Africa: Turning Over a New Leaf.

Bongani Ngqulunga is the Director of the Johannesburg Institute for Advanced Study (JIAS) based at the University of Johannesburg in South Africa. A sociologist and a biographer, he holds a doctorate from Brown University in the US. He is the author of The Man Who Founded the ANC: A Biography of Pixley ka Isaka Seme, which won three literary prizes, including the prestigious Alan Paton Award. He previously served in the Office of the Presidency in the South African government.

Sola Olorunyomi is a Lecturer in cultural studies and African/Africa-diaspora literature at the Institute of African Studies (IAS) at the University of Ibadan (UI) in Nigeria. He is the author of Afrobeat: Fela and the Imagined Continent, and has published widely on related themes in his research on West Africa, the Caribbean, and Nicaragua. He is editor of Glendora Review, an African quarterly journal on arts and culture.

Kwabena Opoku-Agyemang is a Lecturer in the Department of English at the University of Ghana in Legon. He has edited special issues of the journals Hyperrhiz: New Media Cultures, and Journal of Gaming and Virtual Worlds (JGVW). His work has also appeared in Research in African Literatures. He obtained his doctorate from West Virginia University in the US.

Sanya Osha is a Research Fellow at the African Studies Centre, Leiden (ASCL), in the Netherlands. His work has appeared in Transition, Socialism and Democracy, Research in African Literatures, QUEST: An African Journal of Philosophy, Africa Review of Books, and the Blackwell Encyclopedia of Twentieth Century Fiction. He is the author of Kwasi Wiredu and Beyond: The Text, Writing and Thought in Africa; Ken Saro-Wiwa's Shadow: Politics, Nationalism and the Ogoni Protest Movement; Postethnophilosophy; and African Postcolonial Modernity: Informal Subjectivities and the Democratic Consensus. He is also editor of The Social Contract in Africa, and a co-editor of The Africana World: Fragmentation to Unity and Renaissance.

N. Barney Pityana is the retired Principal and Vice-Chancellor of the University of South Africa. He is a human rights lawyer and a theologian. He is Secretary-General of the Network of African Academies of Science (NASAC), and Vice-President of the Academy of Science of South Africa (ASSAf). Professor Pityana served as Chair of South Africa's Human Rights Commission (SAHRC), and worked closely with Steve Biko in the Black Consciousness Movement.

Reiland Rabaka is the Chair of the Department of Ethnic Studies at the University of Colorado in the US, and a Research Fellow in the College of Human Sciences at the University of South Africa. He is the author of more than 50 scholarly articles, book chapters and essays, as well as more than 12 books including Du Bois's Dialectics; Africana Critical Theory; Against Epistemic Apartheid: W.E.B. Du Bois and the Disciplinary Decadence of Sociology; Forms of Fanonism: Frantz Fanon's Critical Theory and the Dialectics of Decolonization; Concepts of Cabralism: Amílcar Cabral and Africana Critical Theory; and The Négritude Movement.

Rhoda Reddock is an Emeritus Professor and academic specialising in gender, social change, and development at the University of the West Indies, and was a former Deputy Principal of the UWI St Augustine Campus in Trinidad and Tobago. She has written over 70 peer-reviewed articles and book chapters, and her eight book publications include Women, Labour and Politics in Trinidad and Tobago: A History; Elma Francois, the NWCSA and the Worker's Struggle for Change in the Caribbean; Interrogating Caribbean Masculinities; and Sex, Power and Taboo.

Pearl T. Robinson is an Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science at Tufts University in Massachusetts, US. She is currently a member of the US Council on Foreign Relations, and was previously President of the US African Studies Association, Director of Tufts University's International Relations Programme, and a board member of TransAfrica. She has authored more than 40 articles and book chapters on African and African-American politics. She is co-author of Stabilizing Nigeria: Sanctions, Incentives, and Support for Civil Society; and Transformation and Resiliency in Africa.

Alison E. Stone Rooffe is Undersecretary at the Bilateral, Regional and Hemispheric Affairs Division in the Jamaican Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade in Kingston. She previously served as Jamaica's first resident Ambassador to Brazil and was concurrently the country's non-resident Ambassador to Argentina, Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay. Ambassador Rooffe has worked for over 28 years in the Jamaican Foreign Service, primarily in the area of trade diplomacy. She has taught in the Department of Government at the University of the West Indies. She holds an MPhil in international relations from the University of Oxford in England.

Cheikh Thiam is the Dean of Africa South of the Sahara at the School for International Training (SIT) in Vermont in the US. He is a founding member of the Dakar Institute of African Studies (DIAS), in Senegal, and an editor of African Studies Review. Dr Thiam has also served as an Associate Professor of African-American Studies, African Studies, and French at the Ohio State University, Columbus, in the US. He is the author of Return to the Kingdom of Childhood: Re-envisioning the Legacy and Philosophical Relevance of Négritude.

Ndirangu Wachanga is Professor of Media Studies and Information Science at the University of Wisconsin in the US. He is the authorised documentary biographer of Micere Mugo, Wole Soyinka, Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'o, and Ali Mazrui.

Professor Wachanga was a Visiting Professor at Princeton University in the US, and a Carnegie African Diaspora Programme Fellow and Visiting Professor at the United States International University–Africa, in Nairobi, Kenya. His most recent publications include Ngũgĩ: Reflections of His Life of Writing; and Growing Up in a Shrinking World: How Politics, Culture and the Nuclear Age Defined the Biography of Ali A. Mazrui.