This collection brings together for the first time literary studies of British colonies in nineteenth-century Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, South America, Southeast Asia, and the South Pacific Islands. Drawing on hemispheric studies, Indigenous studies, and southern theory to decentre British and other European metropoles, the collection offers a groundbreaking challenge to national paradigms and traditional literary periodisations and canons by proposing a new literary history of the region that is predicated less on metropolitan turning points and more on southern cultural networks in multiple regional centres from Cape Town to Dunedin.

With a focus on south–south interactions, southern audiences, and southern modes of addressivity, Worlding the south foregrounds marginal, minor, and neglected writers and texts across a hemispheric complex of southern oceans and terrains. Adopting an ontological tradition that tests the dominance of networked theories of globalisation, the collection asks how we can better understand the dialectical relationship between the ‘real’ world in which a literary text or art object exists and the symbolic or conceptual world it shows or creates. By examining the literary processes of worlding, it demonstrates how art objects make legible homogenising imperial and colonial narratives, inequalities of linguistic power, textual and material violence, and literary and cultural resistance.

With contributions from leading scholars in nineteenth-century literary and cultural studies, the collection revises literary histories of the ‘British world’ by arguing for the distinctiveness of settler colonialism in the southern hemisphere and by incorporating Indigenous, diasporic, and south–south perspectives.

Sarah Comyn is an Assistant Professor and Ad Astra Fellow at University College Dublin. Porscha Fermanis is Professor of Romantic Literature at University College Dublin.
WorLding the south
Series editors: Anna Barton, Andrew Smith

Editorial board: David Amigoni, Isobel Armstrong, Philip Holden, Jerome McGann, Joanne Wilkes, Julia M. Wright

Interventions: Rethinking the Nineteenth Century seeks to make a significant intervention into the critical narratives that dominate conventional and established understandings of nineteenth-century literature. Informed by the latest developments in criticism and theory the series provides a focus for how texts from the long nineteenth century, and more recent adaptations of them, revitalise our knowledge of and engagement with the period. It explores the radical possibilities offered by new methods, unexplored contexts and neglected authors and texts to re-map the literary-cultural landscape of the period and rigorously re-imagine its geographical and historical parameters. The series includes monographs, edited collections, and scholarly sourcebooks.

Already published

Engine of modernity: The omnibus and urban culture in nineteenth-century Paris Masha Belenky

Spectral Dickens: The uncanny forms of novelistic characterization Alexander Bove

Pasts at play: Childhood encounters with history in British culture, 1750–1914 Rachel Bryant Davies and Barbara Gribling (eds)

The Case of the Initial Letter: Charles Dickens and the politics of the dual alphabet Gavin Edwards

Spain in the nineteenth century: New essays on experiences of culture and society Andrew Ginger and Geraldine Lawless

Instead of modernity: The Western canon and the incorporation of the Hispanic (c. 1850–75) Andrew Ginger

The Victorian aquarium: Literary discussions on nature, culture, and science Silvia Granata

Marie Duval: Maverick Victorian cartoonist Simon Grennan, Roger Sabin and Julian Waite

Creating character: Theories of nature and nurture in Victorian sensation fiction Helena Ifill

Margaret Harkness: Writing social engagement 1880–1921 Flore Janssen and Lisa C. Robertson (eds)

Richard Marsh, popular fiction and literary culture, 1890–1915: Re-reading the fin de siècle Victoria Margree, Daniel Orrells and Minna Vuohelainen (eds)

Charlotte Brontë: Legacies and afterlives Amber K. Regis and Deborah Wynne (eds)

The Great Exhibition, 1851: A sourcebook Jonathon Shears (ed.)

Interventions: Rethinking the nineteenth century Andrew Smith and Anna Barton (eds)

Counterfactual Romanticism Damian Walford Davies (ed.)

The poems of Elizabeth Siddal in context Anne Woolley
Worlding the south

Nineteenth-century literary culture and the southern settler colonies

Edited by Sarah Comyn and Porscha Fermanis