Contents

List of figures                                             page viii
Acknowledgements                                          xii
List of abbreviations                                     xvi

Introduction: Revealing and resisting the ‘painful truths’ of gendered urban violence  1

1 Translocational gendered urban violence conceptual framework  30

2 Translocational feminist tracing methodological framework  54

3 Situating gendered urban violence in Rio de Janeiro and London  90

4 Revealing the painful truths of gendered violence in the private sphere in Rio de Janeiro and London  116

5 Revealing the painful truths of gendered violence in the public sphere in Rio de Janeiro and London  141

6 Gendered infrastructural violence and barriers to support in Rio de Janeiro and London  164

7 Resisting and negotiating gendered urban violence in Rio de Janeiro and London  189

Conclusions: Reframing gendered urban violence from a translocational feminist perspective  219

Appendix: Methodological framework                        235
References                                                238
Index                                                     263